How are personal research activities reflected in teaching activities?	During the time that I did my research regarding communications, there is many aspects that I interpret during the time that I did my research, into the way that I teach or tutor in my class. As an example, the research that I conduct regarding interpersonal communication that I used in my class such as ethics and norm that my student needs to understand and use on their daily basis such as in their communications with their lecturer and friends. And not only in communication but also in the way they act and hang out with their friends as well.
